THE fever record of yesterday is one make the stoutest heart quail. Briefly stated it is, one hundred and feety new cases-forty of them colored-and eventy deaths, twenty four of them colored. This surpasses the worst of the terrible days of 1873, the deaths being fifteen in number more than was announced on the tenth of October, the worst day of that year. When it is remembered that our white population is less than that during the epidemic of 1873 by perhaps five thousand, and that at least two thousand negroes have left the city, these figures become truly We doubt whether they can be paralleled even by the experience of Grenada. But bad as they are we have sick to-day. no room to doubt that they will be surpassed perhaps by those of to-day, since the weather is the most favorable we have yet had for the propagation of the disease. We fear that Memphis is doomed to an experience more soul-harrowing than the people of the country have yet been called upon to contemplate and that the losses of life will stand against her for years a black mark, deterring many perhaps, of her own citizens from returning to once happy homes. The total of cases since

KILLED

By Mistake, Mr. J. Hall by Mr. O. J. kennedy, who Was Supposed to be a Burglar.

The accidental killing of Mr. J. C. Hall b . J. Kennedy, near the Sledge place on on Rayburn avenue, at two o'clock yesterday norning, was an unfortunate occurrence, re sulting from the many thefts and burglaries that are daily and nightly occurring in and round the city. Mr. Kennedy's place had been several times raided by these night visitors, who had succeeded in getting off with several head of valuable stock.
